

A seal and a light ~~cat~~
saved the day

A generative story workshop about housing problems in the Netherlands as part of an ongoing Masters research.

Created by Clara Gradel and Jara van Teeffelen

October 2021 at Mediamatic

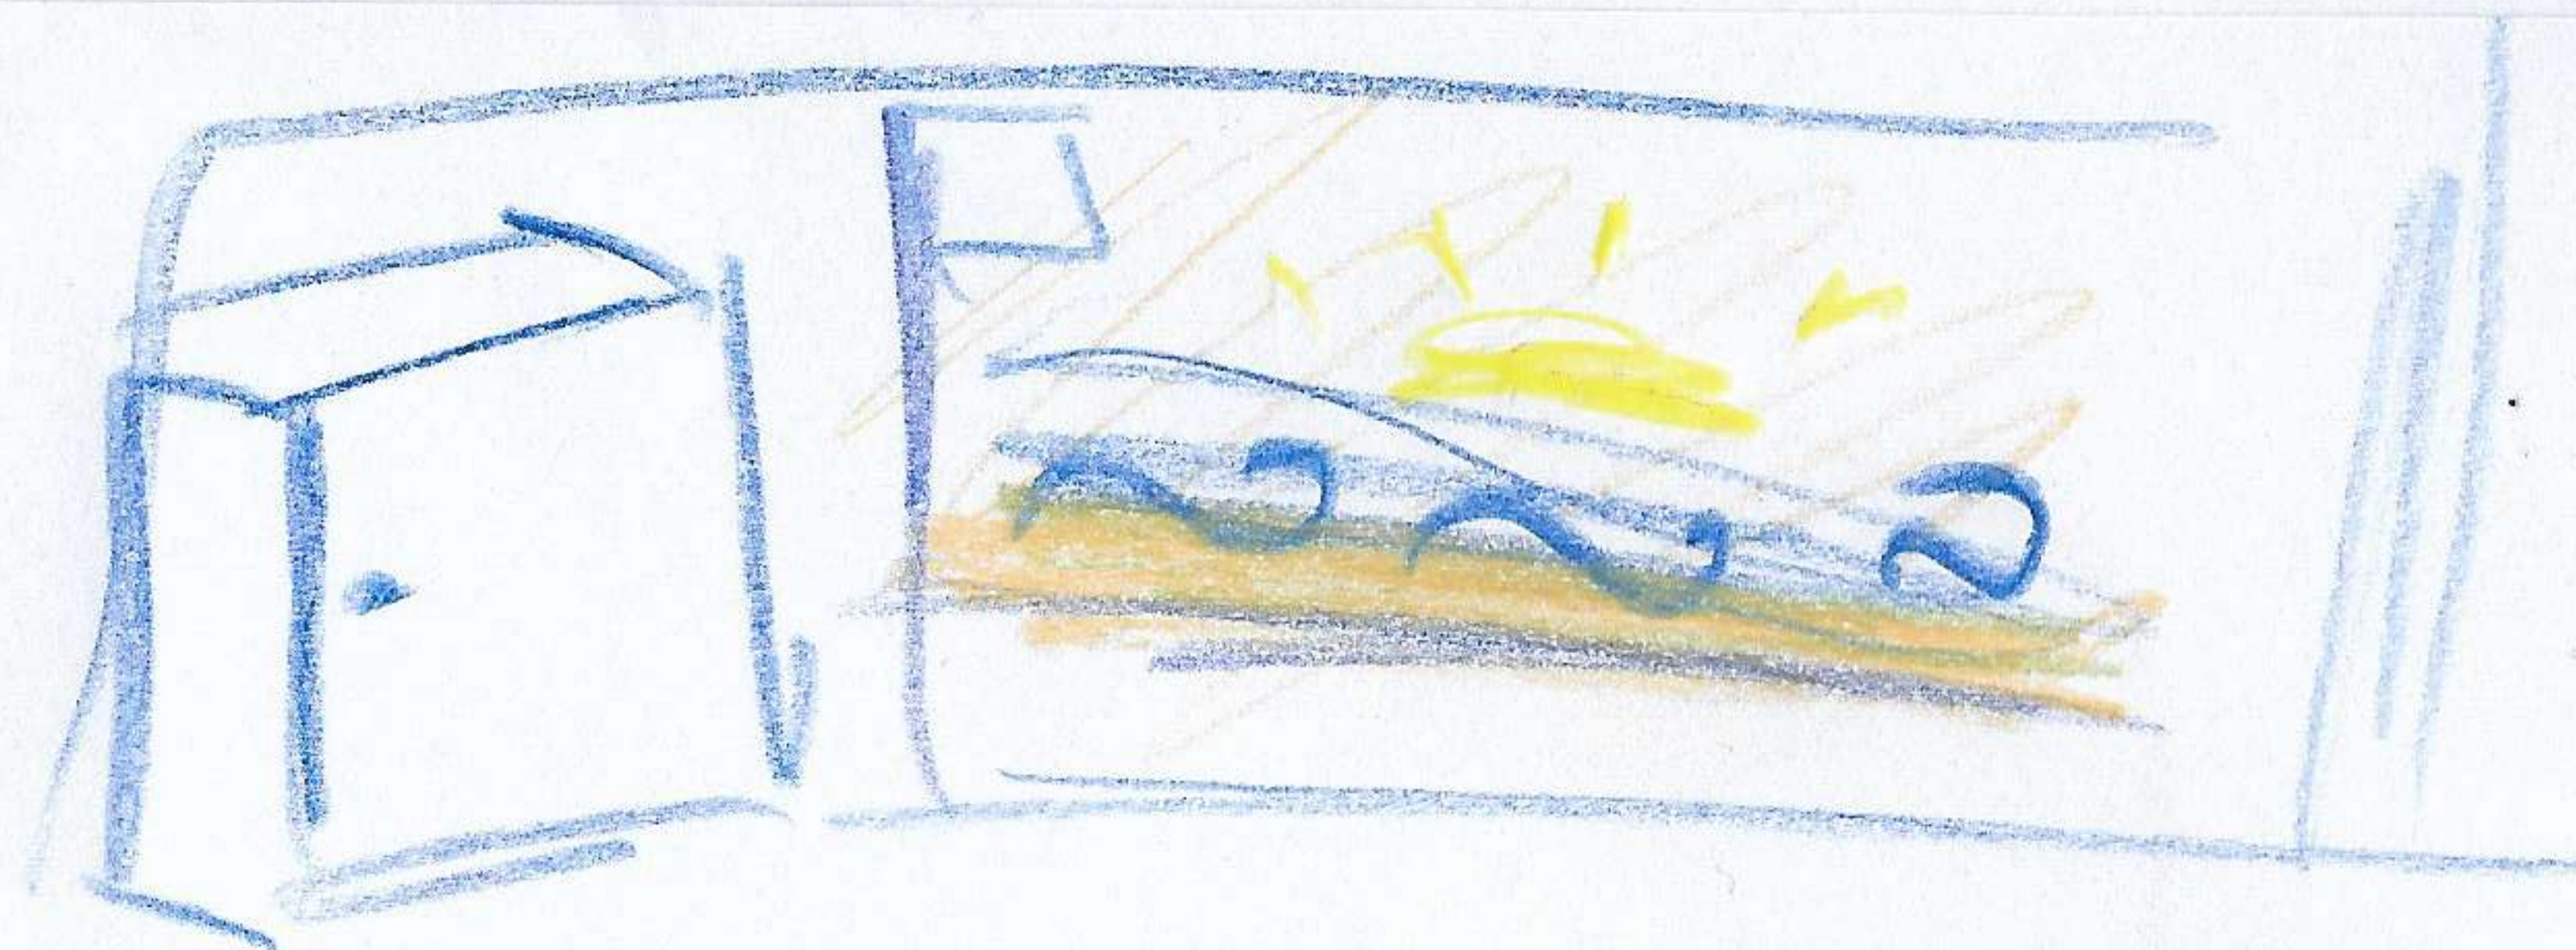

Printed in Rotterdam at the Piet Zwart Institute

On a ~~slippery~~ mantase

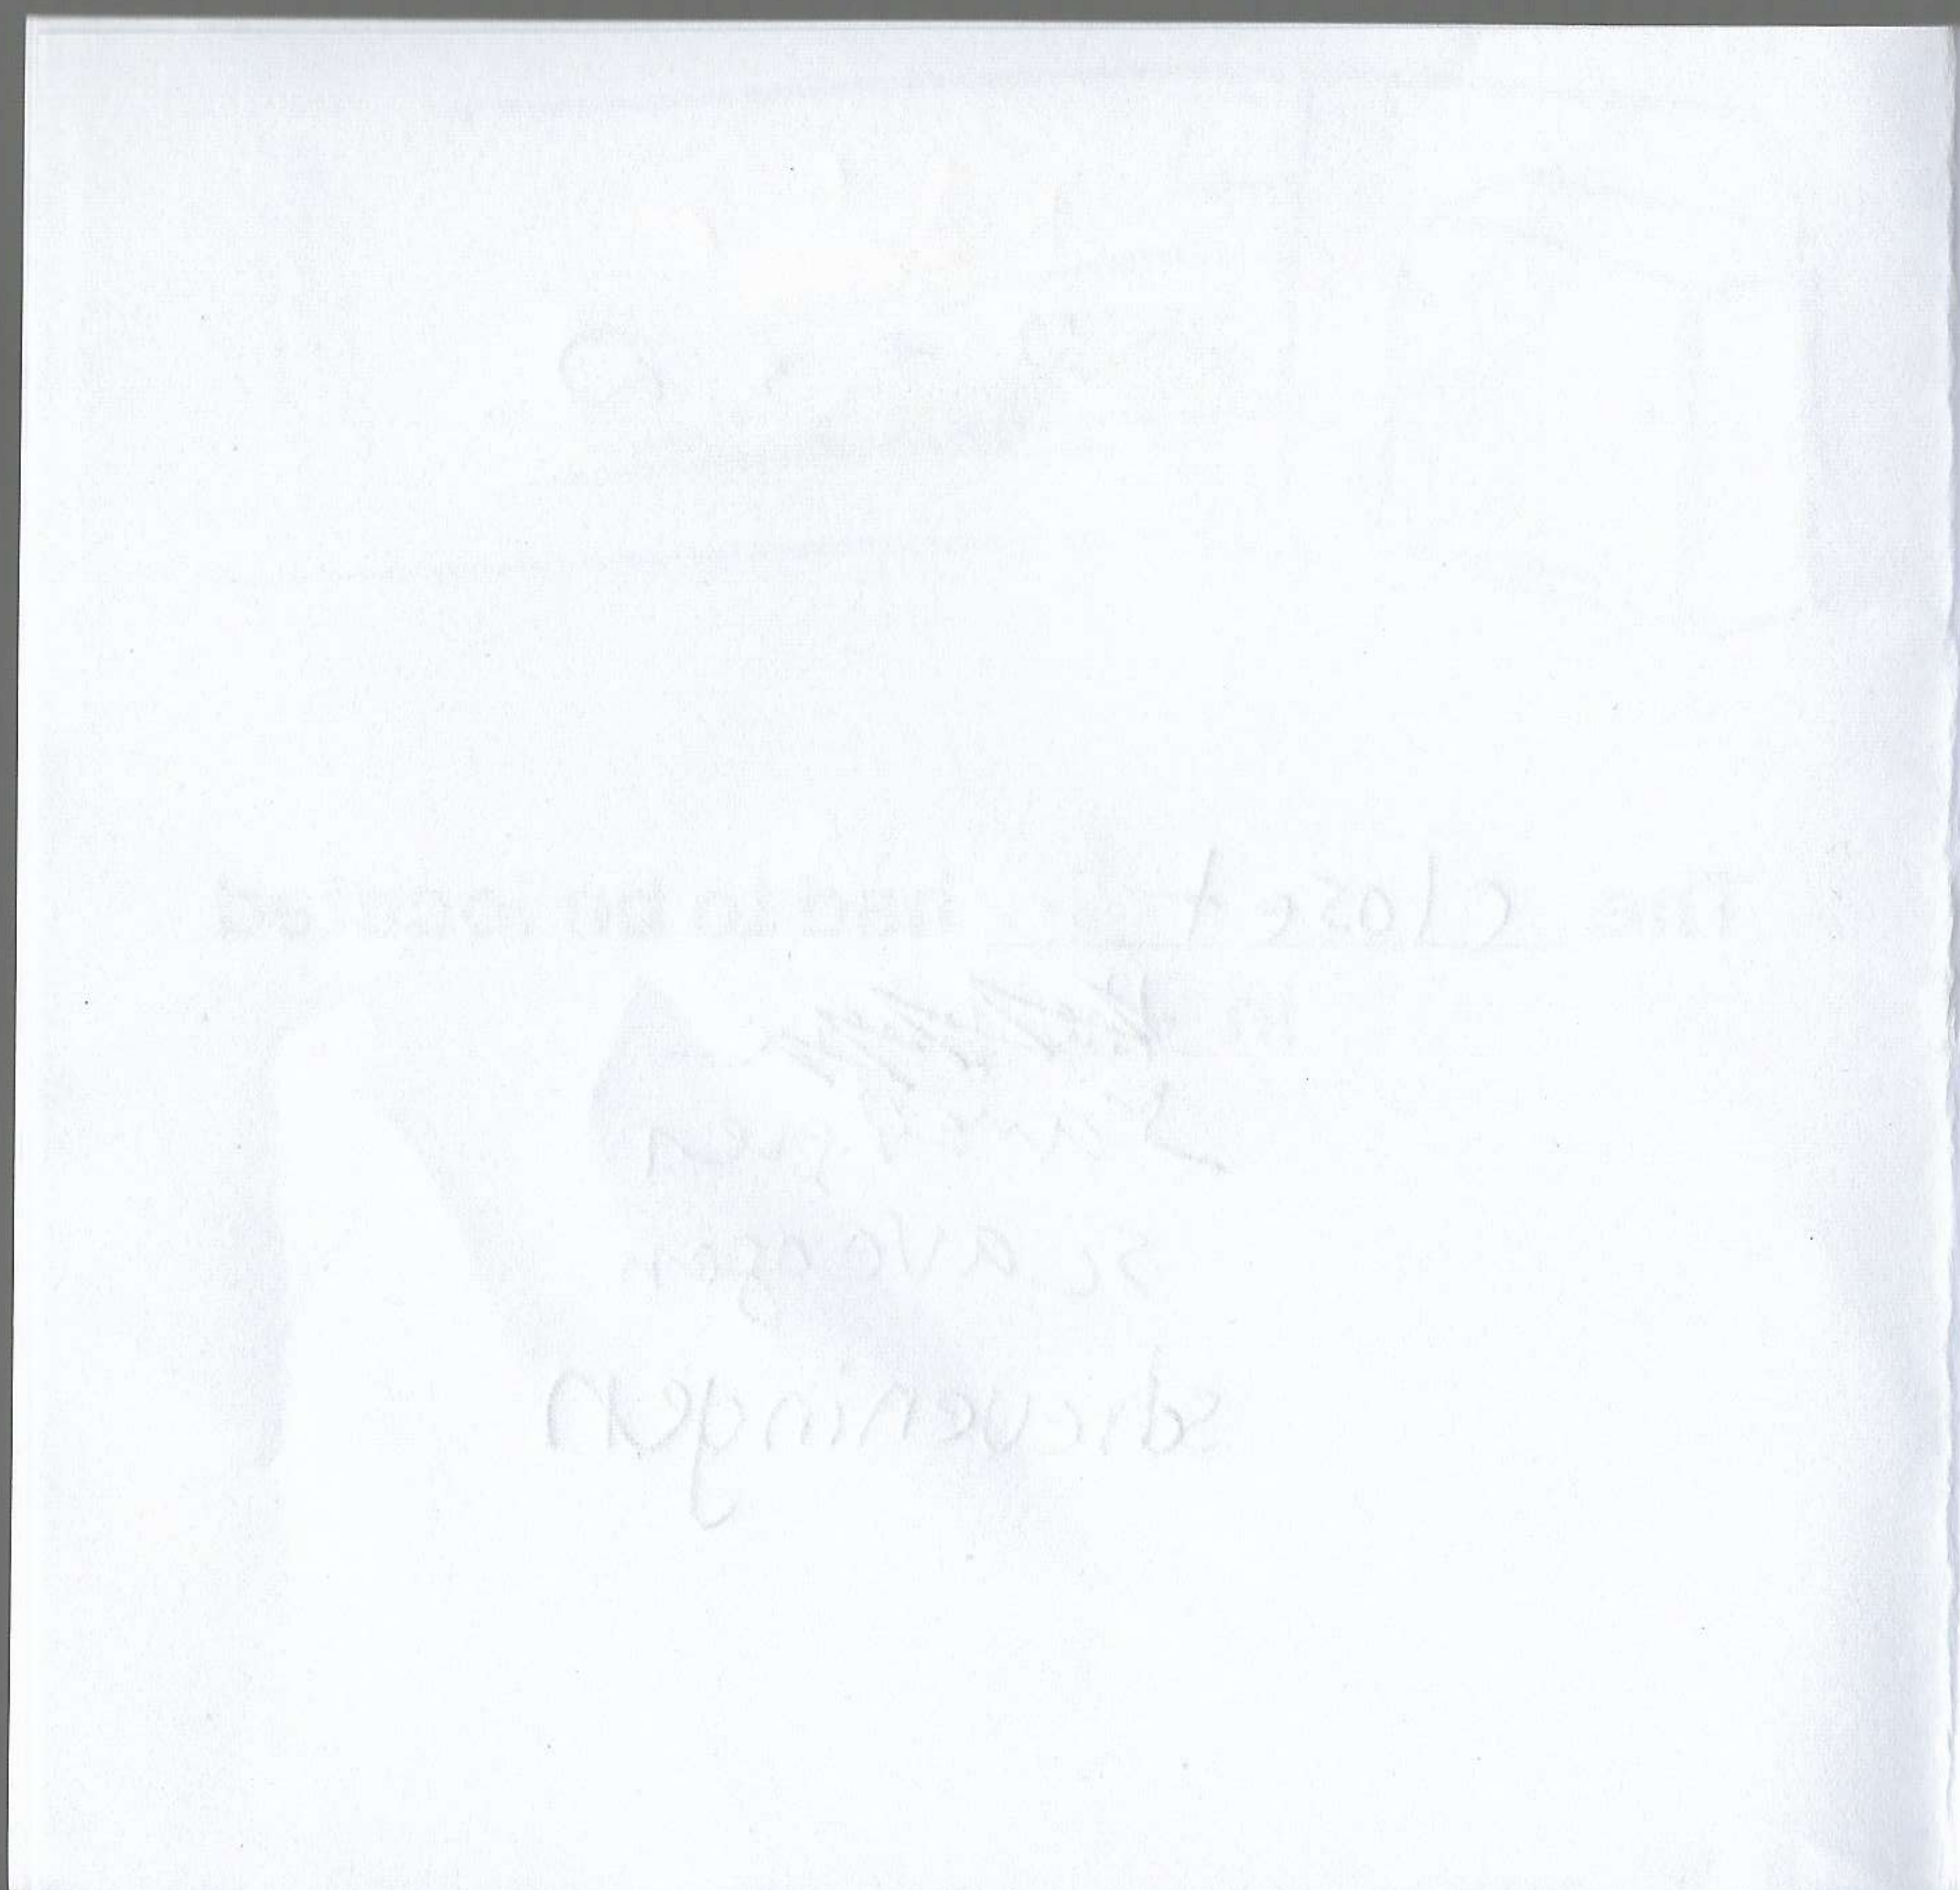

On 1/11/11 at 10:30 AM

Appeared a Falcon ~~man~~ who was searching for an accomodation

The closet had to be located in ~~the house~~ scavenger

scavenger
scheveningen

They had brought with them
a seal and a light

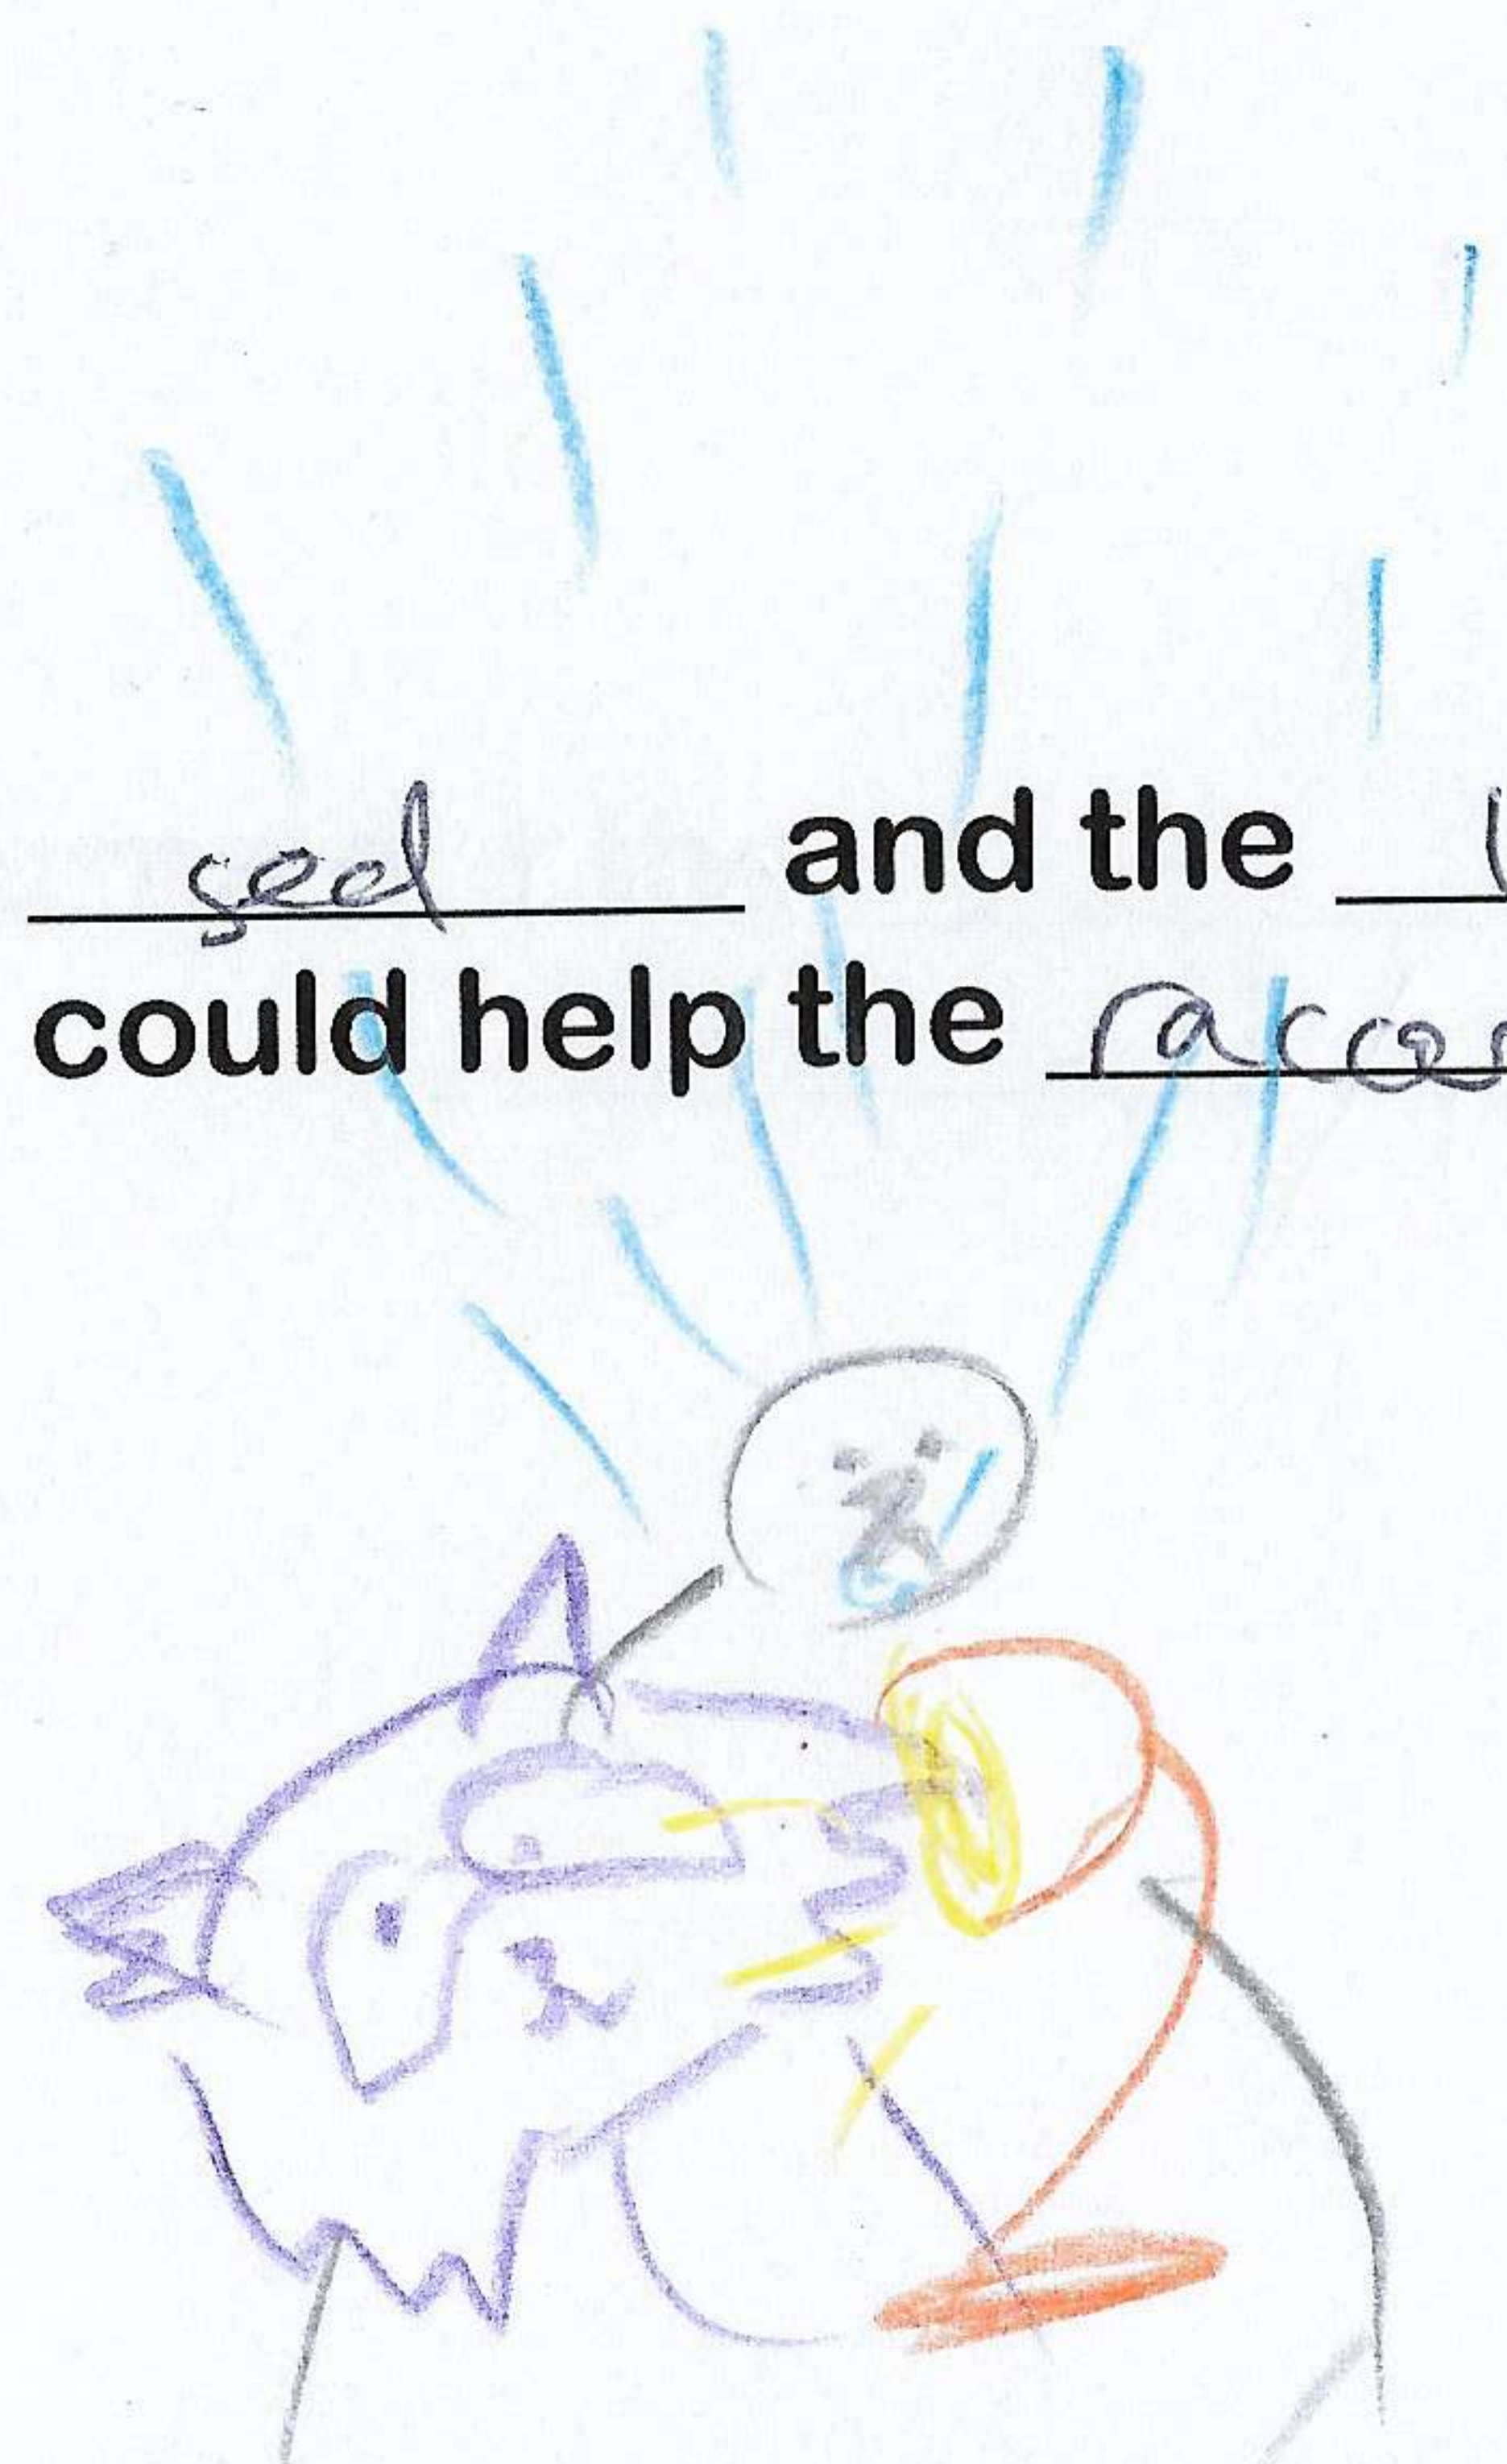

[Faint, illegible handwriting on the left page]

But the falcon couldn't afford the rent

[Handwritten green dollar signs]

But the fox couldn't afford
the rent

The seed and the light
could help the racoon

It turns out the seal could drink all the rain

blues...
A lot of the...
that we...
that we...

So the racon used that to creat a new ocean

The raccoon could then build under-ocean housing ~~through~~ passage ~~with~~

[Faint, illegible handwriting on the left page of the notebook, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

And so land & ocean
neighbors lived together

guess the age of the person who wrote this?

A generative short story by Tala