There's still a lot of work to do.

Violence is still a problem.

It's not just about the numbers. It's about the lives.
The lives of the children who are still being hurt by violence.

It's about the lives of the children who are still being hurt by violence.

It's about the lives of the children who are
still being hurt by violence.

It's about the lives of the children who are
still being hurt by violence.
